Positive Aging - A Strategy for Saskatchewan: What's Next?

— Randy Dove

The Government of Saskatchewan recently appointed a new Minister for Seniors. This is an important development for older adults in Saskatchewan and SSM is encouraged by the announcement.

During the past two years SSM has completed a research and consultation process that involved over 600 participants at forums and approximately 2200 survey participants. This extended process was focused on the development of a direction to respond to the many needs of older adults in Saskatchewan.

The announcement is a positive move by government and an indication that the work done by SSM has had an influence on government direction. We have been advocating to ensure that "all voices matter - older adults need to be heard" so take the announcement as evidence of the importance of older adults to the future of Saskatchewan.

SSM also believes that we are positioned ideally to become the voice of older adults for the new Minister. With our 18 organizational members, 6 supporter organizations and our partnership with SUMA, we have contacts across the province and a network that government can draw on for advice, counsel and engagement.

Our primary message to the Minister is that Saskatchewan has many good quality programs sprinkled across both the federal and provincial governments. What has been lacking is a comprehensive, integrated approach for the aging population in the province. Other parts of Canada have responded to the growing segment of our population by activating more focused financial and human resources to meet the needs of older adults and to empower their continuing contributions to society.

To support our views, SSM will be releasing the results of the "senior strategy" research in the coming weeks. It will focus on key needs of older adults related to transportation, housing, financial sufficiency, access to community services, within a context of the continuation of "age friendly communities", a global initiative endorsed by the United Nations and the rest of Canada.

As SSM continues to advocate, we need your voices too. So, contact your local MLA, let them know how important the next steps taken by the Minister will be. Help us promote SSM as a key partner that can provide government leaders with advice so Saskatchewan's older adults are heard, understood and valued.

His Honour the Honourable Russ Mirasty, Lieutenant Governor of Saskatchewan

"It's a great honour to serve as Saskatchewan's 23rd Lieutenant Governor. I am looking forward to fulfilling my constitutional and ceremonial duties, as well as focusing on the importance of education, mental health, and language and culture. Certainly I will work towards Reconciliation in all activities of my office.

I am very pleased to serve as Honorary Patron of the Saskatchewan Seniors Mechanism and I am looking forward to attending the Volunteer Awards on September 29."

About LG Russ Mirasty: His Honour was born and raised in La Ronge and is a member of the Lac La Ronge Indian Band. He joined the RCMP in 1976 and served in various roles across the country, including as Director General of National Aboriginal Policing Services and as Commanding Officer of "F" Division (Saskatchewan).

After retiring from the RCMP in 2013, His Honour helped lead the Saskatchewan Student First Engagement process. He also served as a member of the League of Educational Administrators, Directors and Superintendents, and as a board member on the Community Safety Knowledge Alliance. He was appointed to Saskatchewan's Advisory Group on Poverty Reduction, and served on the board of the McDowell Foundation, which supports research, inquiry, and sharing of information for the K to 12 education system.

His Honour leads a very active lifestyle and regularly participates in running and cross-country skiing marathon events. He and his wife, Donna Mirasty, have a home in La Ronge, and they have two children and two grandchildren.

ELECTION 2019

Let's make older adult voices as informed and knowledgeable as possible!

It takes some effort to work through the noise that is part of an election campaign – but it can be done.

Party websites continually add policy statements during the election campaign. Local candidates invariably participate in door-knocking.

When face-to-face with a candidate or their representative, you can both learn and influence the candidate and their party. Interact with all candidates, not just the one you think you might favour. Be prepared to ask pointed questions and engage in respectful discussion.

Let's make sure older adult voices are heard in 2019.
Get out and vote!

Some questions you might consider asking the candidates in your constituency:

- What will your Party do to implement the recommendations of the "Advisory Council on the Implementation of National Pharmacare", including the establishment of a Canadian drug agency and national formulary of essential medicines, by January 1, 2022?
- How will your Party implement a National Seniors Strategy to ensure positive aging for all older adults in Canada?
- What is your Party's retirement income security plan? How will your Party protect existing pensions and ensure adequate retirement income for seniors now and for future generations?

Peace of mind anywhere with GoSafe

GoSafe is Lifeline Saskatchewan's revolutionary new mobile service that lets you take Lifeline's 24/7 security with you anywhere, anytime so you can get access to help at home and on the go.¹

GoSafe combines the AutoAlert feature that can automatically call for help if it detects a fall², with a mobile help button that you can speak into to communicate with the Lifeline Response Centre. It's the only mobile system with up to six advanced location technologies designed to help find you in an emergency.

With GoSafe, you can now be as active as you want to be and go wherever you wish without worrying about how you will get help in an emergency.

GoSafe has made all the difference in the world. To know that help is just a press button away allows me the freedom to maintain my active lifestyle outside the home without making compromises fueled by fear.

VOLUNTEERING IN LATER LIFE

We need to ensure people in later life have the opportunity to contribute to their communities

By the time people reach later life, the majority have some experience of contributing to their community - either in a formal volunteering role, or by helping out friends and neighbours.

However, looking to the future, there is no room for complacency. The older population is changing - it is already becoming more ethnically diverse, and more people are living for longer, often with long-term conditions and caring responsibilities.

Our communities currently rely on a 'civic core' of highly engaged individuals... But this group may not be able to sustain its contributions in future, as more people work longer and care for longer.

Without action to attract and retain a more diverse pool of volunteers, organisations working with volunteers may find their capacity is depleted.

If we don't act now to engage a more diverse group of people in later life, communities will continue to miss out on the talents they bring.

SIX PRINCIPLES TO MAKING VOLUNTEERING OPPORTUNITIES AGE-FRIENDLY AND INCLUSIVE

1 Flexible and responsive

2 Enabled and supported

3 Sociable and connected

4 Valued and appreciated

5 Meaningful and purposeful

6 Makes good use of my strengths

AGE-FRIENDLY AND INCLUSIVE VOLUNTEERING

Organisations working with volunteers need to do more to support and sustain the good will and effort of older volunteers.

By the time people reach later life, the majority already have some experience of contribution to their communities.

Relying on a narrow civic core to sustain our communities is highly risky. Without action to attract and retain a more diverse pool of volunteers, organisations working with volunteers may find their capacity is depleted.

We need to make volunteering opportunities age-friendly and inclusive to widen the pool of volunteers and enable people to continue to contribute, even when their circumstances change.

This information and six principles should act as a guide to organisations thinking about how to involve people in later life.

ATTRACT AND KEEP OLDER ADULTS IN YOUR HOME TOWN

...It's an investment, not a cost!
Here's why:

More assets, less debt.

In 2012, senior families (oldest member 65+) owned assets of $748,900 compared to $645,900 for all families. Senior families had total debts of $61,700, compared to $129,000 for all families.

Older Canadians spend significantly — and locally.

Senior families contribute to their community, both by spending locally and by investing in local enterprises. They support the arts, cultural and service organizations, and often donate to local organizations.

Older Adults employment is a growing benefit

Employers retain skilled and knowledgeable workers, and mature leaders who are able to mentor younger employees. Income tax contributes to government revenues while their continued employment contributes to the sustainability of the labour market and the economy.

Building Community

Older residents don't require certain high-cost services such as schools and can contribute user fees for facilities such as pools and gyms. By using services such as roads, transit, commercial centres, athletic centres and other public facilities at off-peak times, they even demand and improve usage rates. Senior families contribute to the municipal tax base.

Providing unpaid care

Contrary to popular belief, older adults are not solely receivers of care. Many older adults (aged 65 and older) provide some sort of assistance or care to someone they know, kin and non-kin alike. This includes caring for adults (including adult children) and grandchildren.

In Canada, over 1 million older adults 65+ (1/3 of whom were 75+) provided care. Older adults provided over 4 million hours of unpaid care, valued at $3.8 billion!

(Information from the Seniors Association of Greater Edmonton report based on Statistics Canada data.)

What is your Lifeprint?

With the changing season, we find ourselves doing chores around the home in preparation for the season to come. We clean our garden beds, removing once vibrant summer flowers that gave us pleasure before the cool weather arrived. For many gardeners, fall means planning ahead for next spring, uprooting annuals, plotting space for tulip bulbs and planting new trees and shrubs before the frost takes hold. Everyone knows what it is like to experience a moment that causes us to pause for a moment or two and reflect. Whether it be welcoming a new member to the family or celebrating the life of a loved one, moments like these signify change and the need to take stock and plan for the future. Penning a will is one of the most important ways that you can plan for the future: ensuring that your values and beliefs are respected by your family, friends and causes. Your values and beliefs leave an impression.

Do You Agree?

— John Knight

Jacques Cousteau on his 75th birthday said to Yakity-Yak that the past is for me time lost. With the enthusiasm of a young man he went on to say, "I do not feel age, I see something I want to do and I have to do it."

There exists within each of us a longing to leave a legacy, some proof that we were here. We can attempt to stifle or ignore this desire, but we cannot escape it.

Ernest Becker stated, "What we fear is not so much extinction as insignificance."

Marva Collins spent her entire career as an educator. Her dissatisfaction with the system led her to start her own school on the west side in Chicago in the fall of '75. The outstanding results of her work have gained Marva international recognition including a movie about her life. Marva Collins sums up her legacy this way: "I've desperately tried to make a difference in the world. I tell my kids in my school, I know I'm going to live forever through you."

"We cannot live by the past; the present is so transient that it almost does not exist. As a matter of fact, we live by the future, or more accurately, we are unceasingly preparing ourselves towards it, trying to anticipate it, and from this process flow all new ideas. It is impossible to be alive without the effort to create and bring something new into concrete manifestation." Nicolay Fechin

As we age we do tend to spend a lot of time in the past rather than the future, perhaps because we have lived the larger part of our lives in the past. I have always said that it is better to wear out rather than rust out. We need to always be blooming not dying.

Mark Twain said, "Let us endeavour so to live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry!"

George Burns, on his 94th birthday was asked if he felt he would live to be 100. He answered, "I have to, I'm booked."

Let us build our lives to leave our legacy and bloom as the flower and spirit we can be. Not wilt away to the past. Be a perennial and continue to bloom.

Ralph GOODALE
Regina-Wascana

Dear Friends,

Since my first election as the M.P. for Regina-Wascana in 1993, it has been a great privilege to have a solid working relationship with Saskatchewan Seniors Mechanism – a strong organization with excellent ideas and advice.

Together, we have made important progress on key priorities for seniors in Saskatchewan and across this country, including:

- ✓ Restoring 65 as the eligibility age for both Old Age Security (OAS) and the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS);
- ✓ Increasing GIS benefits, and increasing the basic amount a person can earn without affecting their GIS benefits;
- ✓ Increasing future payments from the Canada Pension Plan (CPP);
- ✓ Introducing automatic enrolment for both GIS and CPP;
- ✓ Providing more flexibility to defer annuity income;
- ✓ Improving support for caregivers;
- ✓ Strengthening Medicare, including new federal funding for mental health and homecare ($349 million for Saskatchewan);
- ✓ Beginning serious work on National Pharmacare with a new National Drug Agency to negotiate better prices, a more coherent drug formulary, and a strategy to ease the burden of the most expensive drugs for rare diseases;
- ✓ More federal funding for social and affordable housing ($875 million for Saskatchewan);
- ✓ Restoring benefits and services to Veterans.

Priorities for the immediate future include better incomes for seniors, safeguards against discrimination based on age (ageism), measures to protect seniors against fraud and elder abuse, a national strategy on dementia, proposals to combat isolation and loneliness, and a focus on age-friendly communities that are more welcoming for seniors (physical accessibility, safety, lighting, para-transit, inclusive recreation facilities, and so forth).

I look forward to continuing our work together, and I ask respectfully for your support once again on October 21st. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

TOO FIT TO FRACTURE

— Lora Giangregorio, PhD

NEW TOOLS TO HELP AGING BONES

After the age of 40, we lose 0.5% to 1% of the bone mass in our skeleton each year. A diagnosis of osteoporosis means that bones have weakened to the point where they could break from a simple fall.

Osteoporosis affects about 1.4 million Canadians. One in three women and one in five men over the age of 50 will have a fracture due to osteoporosis at some point, often caused by a fall. Fractures can lead to other health problems and loss of function, or independence.

BUILDING MUSCLE AND MAINTAINING BONE HEALTH

As a bone health researcher, I know that everyone loses bone mass and muscle strength as they age, starting as early as their 30s or 40s. By the time we get to an age when we start to notice, or have health problems, it is harder to gain the muscle or bone back. We are not even sure that it is possible to replace lost bone with exercise once it is gone. We do know that it is

Too Fit to Fall or Fracture

Strength Training At least 2 days/week

- ▶ Exercises for legs, arms, chest, shoulders, back
- ▶ Use body weight against gravity, bands, or weights*
- ▶ 8 - 12 repetitions per exercise

Balance Exercises

Every day

- ▶ Tai Chi, dancing, walking on your toes or heels
- ▶ Have a sturdy chair, counter, or wall nearby, and try (from easier to harder): shift weight from heels to toes while standing; stand heel to toe; stand on one foot; walk on a pretend line

Posture Awareness

Every day

- ▶ Gently tuck your chin in and draw your chest up slightly
- ▶ Imagine your collarbones are wings - spread your wings slightly without pulling your shoulders back possible to build muscle size and strength, even if we start later in life. And certain types of exercise have been shown to prevent falls by up to 40%. That's why everyone should do some strength training a few times a week, and challenge their balance every day.

GETTING STARTED

Each of us is different. We each need to choose an exercise program that fits our needs, our lifestyle, and our abilities. Start by talking with a health care provider, such as a certified exercise physiologist.

Bone Fit™ is an exercise training workshop designed for physical therapists, kinesiologists and community exercise professionals. They learn effective and appropriate exercises for people with osteoporosis. You can find a Bone Fit-trained physiotherapist or kinesiologist here.

NEW RESOURCES FROM OSTEOPOROSIS CANADA

I've been working with Osteoporosis Canada and a team of talented students at the University of Waterloo to create a set of free educational tools called "Too Fit to Fracture." The tools can help you develop an exercise program. They include:

- a one-page quick reference guide available in several languages
- an in-depth booklet
- an engaging video series telling stories of five very different people, and demonstrating their exercises.

About the Author Dr. Lora Giangregorio

An Associate Professor of Kinesiology at the University of Waterloo. She is also the Schlegel Research Chair in Mobility and Aging. Her research program focuses on strategies to reduce the risk of fracture, and increase physical activity and mobility in older adults.

Lora translates her research into practice by working with government and non-profit organizations and linking with community-based programs. She collaborated with Osteoporosis Canada to develop the Too Fit to Fracture exercise recommendations.

— By Linda Anderson

A special issue of Time magazine appeared on the racks recently. It is entitled “The Science of Living Longer”, and includes articles on aging well and “23 surprising ways to stay young”. We all know that there is no way that we will, in reality, “stay young”. The years continue to pass as long as we live. Closer perusal of the magazine indicated that “staying young” means fighting the physical and mental processes of aging using science and technology, personal healthy choices and attention to emotional and spiritual health.

Laura Carstensen, director of the Stanford University Center on Longevity, and promoter of the term, “perennials” to name older people, emphasized that although everyone wants to live longer, and science is helping that happen, the real challenge and opportunity is through cultural and societal changes in attitudes towards older people.

Those of us who are over 65 are deeply influenced by our culture and our life experiences. We went to school, worked, developed relationships and perhaps raised a family, then retired. Many of us have 10, 15, 20, 30 and more years to live. Shall we spend it pursuing the societally expected “freedom 65” – a life of endless recreational opportunities and a relaxed carefree lifestyle? Unfortunately, many older adults worry about running out of money, losing cognitive function or dying from a devastating disease. There can be more to growing older than either of these options.

Older adults are now a growing new resource – older people who have expertise, resources, imagination, energy and the motivation to try to make a difference in our world. We must change the societal expectations from fearing a crisis caused by an over-abundance of burdensome older adults to one about quality long life and new opportunities for older people and their communities.

SO WHAT ABOUT THESE BLOOMING PERENNIALS?!

“Perennials” - Older adults choose when they can engage and contribute. Various factors affect older adults’ choices – family and friends, time, opportunities, finances, health. Sometimes an older adult needs to take a break. Perennials aren’t guaranteed to blossom year after year, but given proper conditions, good soil and nutrients, they can go on for decades.

The prairie wild crocus is a good symbol for perennials. Crocuses are resilient. They are able to adjust to change and misfortune. Crocuses reappear on the prairie hillside even if in the previous year they were beaten down by ice and snow and freezing temperatures. Crocus-minded perennials keep their belief in something larger than themselves – a belief that spring comes again and again; and in the coming spring, something in their world might have changed for the better. Even more importantly, perennials may have helped bring about that change.

SSM is beginning a campaign to introduce some of Saskatchewan's "Blooming Perennials" to one another. We are going to produce a series of Blooming Perennials posters that will feature older adults whose lives are valuable to community, friends and family, no matter their age or the challenges of aging that they may face.

Nominate a perennial for inclusion in our poster series by:

- 1 Getting their permission for nomination.
- 2 Writing a short description of how you think the person shows outstanding perennial values.

PROTECTING PENSIONS & BENEFITS FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES & RETIREES

The National Association of Federal Retirees is the largest group focused exclusively on pensions and retirement benefits for current and former members of Canada's Federal Public Service, Armed Forces and the RCMP. We proudly serve 176,000 federal government employees, retirees and their survivors, who belong to one of 79 branches located throughout Canada.

OUR GOALS

- To protect and enhance the benefits of those in receipt of pensions under the superannuation acts (Public Service, Canadian Forces and RCMP) and the Judges Act
- To prevent the acceptance of proposals detrimental to interests of veterans and federal retirees
- To protect and enhance the benefits of seniors in general
- To inform and assist federal retirees with regard to their rights as federal pensioners
- To co-operate with other seniors'/pensioners' organizations on mutual objectives

Federal Retirees have set out four key priorities for the upcoming federal election: retirement income security, a national seniors strategy, support for veterans and their families, and pharmacare.

FRONT L-R:
 – D. Sutherland (Regina Pres.)
 – K. Lye (Regina Pres. Forum Coordinator)
 – C. Haines (Saskatoon Pres.)
 – R. Aessie (Regional Services Officer)

 – P.D. Daniel (Prince Albert Pres.)
 – B. Harris (Advocacy Officer)
 – B. Young (Moose Jaw Pres.)
 – J. Leyshon (Swift Current Pres.)
 – L. Comstock (N.W. Area)

Association nationale des retraités fédéraux National Association of Federal Retirees

SASKATCHEWAN

In Saskatchewan, there are 6 branches located in Moose Jaw, Northwest Saskatchewan, Prince Albert, Regina, Saskatoon and Swift Current. These branches operate solely with volunteer members who provide important social gathering opportunities for their members, advocate for our goals, join forces with like orientated organizations such as Saskatchewan Seniors Mechanism and provide a conduit to our National Office.

OTHER BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

In addition to being a collective voice for members in ensuring we enjoy a productive and stable retirement, being part of a large organization provides the benefit of being able to enter into Preferred Partnerships that offer terrific and exclusive discounts to Association members such as:

- Travel worry-free with our most popular benefit, low rates on travel insurance just for federal employees and retirees. Our members benefit from a specially-designed MEDOC® Travel Insurance plan through Johnson Insurance that co-ordinates with the Public Service Health Care Plan (PSHCP) and your provincial government health insurance plan to offer unbeatable coverage at an exceptional rate.
- Travel and save with special offers from Collette, VIA Rail, Choice Hotels, Alamo Rent A Car, Enterprise Rent-A-Car and National Car Rental.
- Protect your home, autos, valuables with Johnson Home and Car Insurance and AlarmCare.

RESILIENCE...

- Simplify your move with Relocation Services Group.
- Learn, save and invest with our financial partners Tradex, Arbor Memorial and Canadian MoneySaver magazine.
- Prioritize health and wellness with Goodlife Fitness Clubs and HearingLife Canada.
- Stay connected with SimplyConnect mobile plans.

The Honourable Warren Kaeding, Minister of Rural and Remote Health and Minister Responsible for Seniors

I am grateful for the opportunity to inform Gray Matters readers about my new appointment as the Minister of Rural and Remote Health and Minister Responsible for Seniors.

Seniors are an important and growing demographic in our province and my role will provide them with a specific voice at the highest level of government. I have been tasked with working alongside my colleagues from across government to ensure that the programs and services we deliver are meeting the needs of our seniors.

Since this portfolio was created, I have had the opportunity to meet with a number of groups to discuss the issues facing seniors. These have been very productive discussions and I look forward to having more of them in the weeks and months ahead. Recently, our government has made a number of investments in health, social services, housing, and financial supports that will enable seniors to live safely and comfortably in their homes and communities. I would like to take the opportunity to highlight several of these.

One of our main goals is to support seniors living independently at home for as long as possible. We offer a number of housing and care options including subsidized housing and personal care homes. New investments in Individualized Funding will reduce wait lists and assist with creating capacity within the existing home care program. We are also working on a provincial Connected Care strategy to ensure seniors receive care when and where they need it across hospital, primary care, and in community as well as home-based services.

Through the Seniors' Income Plan Saskatchewan, seniors are offered one of the highest levels of income assistance in all of Canada. Federal and provincial credits, including the Age Credit and the Saskatchewan Senior Supplement, reduce both federal and provincial income taxes for seniors.

I am excited about the creation of a portfolio where I can stand up and be a voice for seniors. It is my contention that there is no better way to gauge the quality of services than to ask those who receive them.

Thanks to the SSM for all the work they do to advocate on behalf of seniors in our province.

UNDERSTANDING THE UNDERAPPRECIATED BURDEN OF INFLUENZA AMONGST CANADA'S OLDER ADULTS

Influenza, together with all causes of pneumonia, is the 7th leading cause of death in Canada, and is the leading cause of death amongst diseases prevented by vaccines.

FLU-RELATED HOSPITALIZATIONS AND DEATHS

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

- Every year in Canada, influenza causes an average of 12,200 hospitalizations and an average of 3,500 deaths.
- On average, adults 65 years and older account for 70% of flu-related hospitalizations and 90% of flu-related deaths.

HEART, LUNG AND THE FLU

In adults 65 years and older, the risk of death associated with the flu was:

- 5X GREATER among those with chronic heart disease
- 12X GREATER among those with chronic lung disease
- 20X GREATER among those with BOTH chronic heart and lung conditions.

It is imperative to prevent the flu in adults 65 years and older.

WHAT IS THE CONNECTION BETWEEN FLU AND HEART ATTACKS?

DID YOU KNOW?

A recent Canadian study of adults found that:

- The risk of heart attack was 6X HIGHER within 7 days of a flu diagnosis.

In a separate study in adults with varying degrees of cardiovascular risk:

- Flu vaccination was associated with a 36% lower risk of major cardiovascular events including cardiovascular death, heart attack and heart failure.

VACCINES: LESS THAN 100% IS BETTER THAN 0%

Even when there is a less than ideal match or lower effectiveness against one virus, it is important to be aware that those who get the flu vaccine:

- ARE STILL MORE LIKELY TO BE PROTECTED AGAINST THE FLU COMPARED TO THOSE WHO ARE UNVACCINATED
- ARE PROTECTED AGAINST THE OTHER FLU STRAINS THAT ARE CONTAINED IN THE VACCINE
- MAY HAVE A Milder illness even if they do get the flu.

You are also less likely to pass the flu along to those who aren't able to fight it.

The National Advisory Committee on Immunization (NACI) recommends flu vaccination for everyone 6 months of age and older, especially those at high risk, including infants, adults 65 years and older, and those with comorbidities.

FLU SEASON

Keep yourself and your loved ones safe this flu season.

Get your flu shot.

The flu vaccine will be available in Saskatchewan starting Monday, October 21, 2019. The shot is available at no charge to people with a valid Saskatchewan Health Card.

Early vaccination means you are better protected. The flu vaccine is a safe, effective way to help people stay healthy, prevent illness and save lives.

How to Avoid Hidden Travel Expenses

When you start to plan for a vacation, obvious expenses such as transportation, accommodations, food and attractions are always top of mind. It's important to remember that smaller fees can add up too. Here are a few hidden travel expenses to keep your spending on track.

Checked baggage: If you're flying overseas, you'll likely get one checked bag free. But if you're travelling within North America, you're probably going to have to pay at least $30 for each checked bag. If you can, fly only with carry-on luggage to save some cash.

Local transportation: If you don't want to rent a car or rely on taxis and ride-sharing services (fees for which will add up quickly), get familiar with the public transit system.

Health care needs: Depending on where you are going in the world, you may need to get vaccinated or bring meds with you. Unfortunately, the Saskatchewan Health Authority does not cover the cost of vaccinations or travel-related medication. Although you'll have to pay out of pocket, it's worth the peace of mind of staying healthy while you're away. Seeking medical attention outside Saskatchewan can get expensive: Even if you're just going to another province, certain costs may not be covered. Always purchase travel medical insurance before you leave. caask.ca/insurance Communication: You can rely on Wi-Fi at hotels and airports, but if you prefer to stay connected, you may need to budget for a data plan.

Learn more, read How to Avoid Hidden Travel Expenses in the fall issue of caask.ca/caamagazine. For help with travel planning and bookings, contact caask.ca/travel or call 1-800-564-6222.

STRATEGIZING FOR POSITIVE AGING IN SASKATCHEWAN

SSM has been working on the final reports arising out of our research to provide the framework for a Seniors Strategy for Saskatchewan. We received 2044 surveys in total. We are now planning for release of the results.

Participants in the SSM research repeatedly spoke about ensuring that attention is paid to the “advantage” Saskatchewan has with its older adult population. There is a large, vibrant, experienced segment of Saskatchewan to utilize now and into the future. Older adults can and will make a significant contribution to the growth and success of the province especially if supported and encouraged through strong government leadership.

Our reports will be emphasizing this Saskatchewan “advantage”.

Watch for a news release in mid-November, after which we will put the information on our website.

WASTE NOT - WANT NOT

— By Alma Gabruch

The list in the library “reduce, reuse, recycle” is for today’s generation. I could put a tick mark beside each suggestion, things I’ve been doing for years. We saved and reused out of necessity...

Since we haul water for the house, we’ve always been careful about its use. We still use a wringer-washer; flush the toilet with a pail of water; use a minimum of water when bathing. When choosing plants or shrubs, we get drought-resistant ones. We keep an eye on the calendar (marked when we haul) so we don’t drain the cistern.

Disposable diapers were just coming on the market when our family was small; we didn’t use them. We weren’t a part of the throw-away society. Even the picnic basket had washable plates; although we did use paper napkins. The children took lunch boxes and thermoses to school. At a certain age they “graduated” to paper bags; even those were reused.

Cleaning agents have been vinegar, water, soap, baking soda and elbow grease. In case anyone thinks a halo is showing – we weren’t thinking of the environment when we saved in daily life. It was a matter of economics; we tried to stretch the dollar as far as possible.

At the library there was also a list of places to take various articles for use or recycling. Now I know what can be done with the jars, egg cartons, and newspapers that still accumulate.

More and more people are becoming environment-conscious. We are encouraged to reuse, recycle and make do; all of which my generation did. This generation is to be commended for their concern and effort to reduce waste.

The drive to reduce garbage comes just as I was thinking it would be alright to use and throw away. After all, the children are all on their own; now I can live a little! Oh well. It’s hard to change the habits of a lifetime; and these habits are good ones.

CLIFF LOWE

— Written by niece, Pat Wendelborg

My uncle Cliff was born in 1911 on the family farm in the Warman district. As a young boy he worked hard.

One of his jobs was hauling milk to Saskatoon with a team of horses.

Cliff was always a caregiver, helping watch over his four sisters and younger brother.

Times were hard during the depression years, and the family had to walk away from the farm in the 30s. They headed north where they began farming again in the Pathlow area south of Melfort.

Cliff farmed with his father and took over until his retirement in the 70s when he and his wife moved to Melfort.

They enjoyed golfing, curling, square dancing, to name a few, and always took an active part in the community.

Cliff was a very dedicated member of the United Church, the Elks club and, in his 80s and 90s, was even delivering Meals on Wheels and volunteering wherever he felt he could be of help.

Cliff golfed 18 holes on his 99th birthday and even with a golf cart this was quite an accomplishment.

Cliff passed away in May of 2011, a few months short of his 100th birthday. He was a quiet and humble man, a great example to his family and a life well lived.

“They shall not grow old, as we that are left to grow old: age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them.”

GREETINGS FROM THE SSAI EXECUTIVE

President
Dwayne Turcotte

Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Dwayne Turcotte and I am now the President of SSAI. I was born and raised in Saskatchewan and currently reside in Saskatoon with my wife Marie.

I look forward to continuing the great work that has been done on behalf of the seniors of Saskatchewan. I also hope to bring more programs and initiatives to the members of SSAI.

Best regards
SSAI President
Dwayne Turcotte

SSAI - NATIONAL RECOGNITION

This year is special in another way!! NPF, founded by SSAI – the Medd family will be celebrating its 75th Anniversary in September at the NPF conference being held in Mississauga. The Medd Award will be presented to the organization/individual who deserves recognition for Advocacy on behalf of Seniors.

In recognition of all the milestones achieved on behalf of seniors in Saskatchewan such as:

- Involved in discussions for Universal Medicare.
- Improved Pensions.

- Continuation of spouses allowance in the event of a death.
- Home care.
- Persuading government to establish district home care boards.
- Improvements to housing that is affordable and suitable.
- Foot program.
- Wellness health programs.
- Restore fully taxable income to fully account for inflation.
- Defeating multilateral agreement on investments.
- Affordable rates for room and board in Saskatchewan nursing homes.
- Promoting the twinning of more highways.
- Hold on raising rates on special care.
- Housing and reducing the education tax.

Medd Award

Nathan Medd

After a nation-wide survey, the Medd Award will be presented to the Saskatchewan Seniors' Association Inc.

President Turcotte and 1st Vic, Mike Kaminski, will be receiving the award on behalf of SSAI.

— Mike Kaminski

SSAI 2nd Vice President

I am very pleased to be able to join our new executive team of Dwayne Turcotte, Mike Kaminski, Pat Trask, and Shannon Wright.

I am hoping to add some punch to our resolutions. I am very interested in the diabetes and medical issues. I have had diabetes for the last 20 plus years so have invested quite a sum of money for pills, needles, etc.

My 104 year old mother-in-law spends $300.00 a month on medicines. That is a lot for a lady that spent her young years walking behind a plow pulled by oxen. There are many that cannot afford these sums.

My wife enjoys joining in bowling, shuffleboard, pot luck meals and shares leading exercises with another lady.

This past year has been very exciting for me. Over the years, I have lost my father, only sister and my mother. Being adopted and having the Government open the Adoption records in 2017 changed that. I applied and received all birth information. Found out that I have an aunt still living in Prince Albert. Talking and meeting with her opened up a whole new life for me - found out that I have 2 half sisters from my biological mother. I enjoy meeting and visiting with them. Also have one half brother from my biological father who I regretfully missed meeting by 2 weeks as he had passed away. I have a new niece, nephew and cousins in the area and have met a lot of them.

From my 3 children I now have 12 Grandchildren and 16 Great Grandchildren of whom I am very proud.

Fall is here and so comes the flu. Don't forget to get your flu shot. I get mine from my pharmacist as I can get it earlier and avoid the line ups.

TRASK TRAVELS – LIFE'S JOURNEY

The journey of life leads us down many roads, some smooth and easy going, others in some form of disarray. Rough sections and maybe even a few potholes, long life, great families, and good health are all the features we are aiming for as we make our journey.

There are "special" road signs as we go through the years. There are yield signs and caution signs that we need to pay attention to. ometimes as we age we neglect to pay attention to these signs. We encounter potholes and detours in our lives that can change our destination points very quickly. We can develop body problems that can change our direction, even severely stifle our goals. We can meet other people who can influence our journey for the good or for the bad. Lots of pressures occur in our lives that can determine our "outcome".

In our younger years we rely on our parents for training and support. Through our teens we have interfamily interactions affecting our lives. By the time we are adults we need to have our minds trained and sculpted to follow the roads that we have chosen.

I am a senior now and I look back on my years and I also do a lot of looking forward. There is a lot of time spent by do-good groups and concerned others who have done a lot of work and organizing and drawing up of policies that they believe will give older adults all the direction and assistance they need.

I have always been an investigative type of listener, questioning everything in my own mind before I totally accept or reject what I am supposed to believe. I am glad that there are people out there who are determined to make things better for all. When the term "age-friendly" became a fairly common buzzword, I began to pay a lot of attention to the daily experiences I have that may or may not fit in to that category. For instance, how many business or office units do I try to enter and find the doors so heavy I almost have to wait for help to open them? And when I drive down the street at the posted speed limit and obeying all traffic signs, how many times is there an impatient bullying driver right up against my rear bumper? How many times do I go through a grocery line-up, and as soon as I pay, the cashier starts processing someone else through the line, crowding the groceries on to mine before I can get them bagged. How about the restaurants that are upstairs with no elevators (that keeps the old folks out!)? How about big important guys with the souped-up half tons who wheel in to a handicapped zone right in front of you?

Most people in the food service industry need better training in dealing with customers, particularly the seniors. There are lots of things that can be called age-friendly but overall, are we too quick sometimes with labels?

AGE-FRIENDLY IN ACTION

The Invermay Golden Age Club in partnership with the Invermay Branch of the Parkland Regional Library accessed funding from New Horizons. The project is one to reduce Vulnerability of Seniors. This is hands on training for seniors in the community to learn how to use computers, navigate on internet, learn how to receive and send emails, and also surf the net to find information. The program celebrated its kick-off on Sept. 22. Seniors now sign in for training sessions to develop skills to become more computer savvy. After the seniors' training sessions are complete, the program will then extend to providing research picture essay and brochure essay writing after school hours for students.

YOUR IMMUNE SYSTEM MAY SLOW DOWN, BUT YOU DON'T HAVE TO.

FOR ADULTS 65+

Preventing the flu is your choice.

In a study of 31,000 people over 65 in the US and Canada, FLUZONE® High-Dose was demonstrated to be than our standard dose vaccine* in protecting seniors from the flu.

24% MORE EFFECTIVE

If you're 65+, vaccination is one of the best ways to protect yourself from the flu.

Ask your healthcare provider for the FLUZONE® High-Dose flu shot and get protected now.

Fluzone® High-Dose
INFLUENZA VACCINE

*Vs. standard dose FLUZONE® vaccine against laboratory-confirmed influenza caused by any viral type or subtype.

FLUZONE® High-Dose is a vaccine used to prevent influenza in adults 65 years of age and older. Influenza (or flu) is an infection caused by the influenza virus. Annual vaccination using the current vaccine is recommended for prevention against influenza as immunity declines in the year following vaccination. Persons with a history of severe allergic reaction to eggs or egg products or any component of FLUZONE® High-Dose should not receive the vaccine. FLUZONE® High-Dose will only protect against the strains of influenza virus contained in the vaccine or those that are closely related. FLUZONE® High-Dose will not protect against any other strains of influenza virus. FLUZONE® High-Dose is not indicated for the prevention of hospitalization or death after the onset of disease. As with all vaccines, FLUZONE® High-Dose does not protect 100% of people immunized. Allergic reactions can occur. The most common side effects are pain at the injection site and muscle ache. Contact your healthcare provider to see if this vaccine is right for you. For more information, visit www.sanofi.ca.
